The purpose of this drive was to administer Covid-19 vaccines to a large population to mitigate the spread of the virus and achieve herd immunity. During the vaccination program accurate information and education regarding the vaccines were provided and the concerns of the participants were addressed. Individuals registered for vaccination were screened by medical professionals for any contraindications or allergies before vaccination. A total of 232 COVISHIELD vaccine doses were administered. After the vaccination, they were monitored for a brief period to identify any immediate adverse reactions. Vaccine details and recipient information were documented for further reference.

The vaccine drive was funded for students by the college management. The members of Covid Jagratha Committee and NSS unit of the institution coordinated for the smooth functioning of drive. The program was concluded by 5pm. This type of mass drive helps to lower the cases of hospitalization and therefore support for the normal functioning of hospitals of the country as many hospitals have scaled back or postponed other medical services in the pandemic situation. This program demonstrated the importance of a coordinated and well executed effort to address the global health crisis.
